FEUD BREAKS OUT IN L. & A. SMOKER

Whites and a Bailey Engage In Gun Battle—No Casualties But Passengers' Nerves

Passengers coming this way on the morning L. & A. train from Frankfort, passing Richmond about noon, were treated to a genuine old-fashioned feud battle in the smoking car. The gun fight was between a couple of Whites and a member of the Bailey clan, both formerly of Knox county, where the Baileys killed old man White some months ago for which he was sentenced to a long term in the penitentiary.

Stories differ as to stories of the facts of the shooting. Several passengers who got off here said that soon after the train left Versailles, the two Whites, John P. Jr., and Will White, went into the smoking car and saw Jim Bailey there reading a newspaper. This story has it that the Whites opened fire on him with their pistols. Bailey is said to have gotten his gun mighty quick and to have replied to the fire. One of the White's gun jammed, this report said, and Bailey jumped off the train, the Whites being arrested and taken to Nicholasville by Conductor Sam McGinn.

Another story from Lexington, where the Whites were seen by newspaper reporters, has it that they claim that they did not see Bailey until he opened fire on them and that they merely fired to protect themselves. The exact truth of the affair is expected to come out at trial of the men. A number of passengers were in the smoking car at the time the shooting occurred, and it is said that they scampered for shelter under the seats like rabbits. Luckily no one was hurt by the fusillade.

A PACKED HOUSE SEES MYSTERY ACT

Monday night at the opera house Pitroff presented the much talked about mystery "Sewing a Woman in Half" before one of the largest crowds that has packed the opera house in some time. The way the mystifier presented this act caused much excitement as the saw was cutting deeper and deeper and the girl was sawed in half. Minney Bros.' ambulance was on the job and was waiting in front of the opera house until Pitroff was through with the serious operation. After the performance much comment was heard as to how the act is done but the mystery man explained last night that some say this way and some say that way—Pitroff says the other way. Pitroff said last night to a reporter of the Daily Register no matter which way the public says it is done, he tells them that they are right, saving lots of dispute. The act will be offered for the last time this evening.

TO DISCUSS SCHOOL TAX WEDNESDAY EVE

Citizens Committee Named To Hear School Board Plan With Council Members

Nothing seems to have stirred the people of Richmond in a long time as the proposal of the City Board of Education to increase the tax rate to $1.35 on the $100 of property to complete and maintain the new school building on the hill.

The question will be thoroughly threshed out at a meeting of the School Board, the Finance Committee of the city council and a special citizens' committee named by Mayor Wm. O'Neil. The Finance Committee of the city council is composed of Mayor O'Neil, Councilmen Crutcher, J. W. Hamilton and J. R. McKinney. The special citizens' committee is composed of Messrs Weller Bennett, T. K. Hamilton, J. Hale Dean and John Crooke. The meeting will be held at the city hall at 7:15 o'clock Wednesday night. Quite a number of citizens are expected to be present. Several prominent local women, who are large taxpayers, say they are going to organize the women of the city against the imposition of the heavy tax proposed by the school board. It is hardly expected that anything will be done, however, until after the joint meeting scheduled for Wednesday night.

ROAD TO M'KEE FINALLY APPROVED

All Now Necessary Is For Madison County To Raise Her Portion of Expense

The McKee highway has been approved for construction by the State Highway Department. All that is necessary now is for Madison county to "come across" with her share of the expense of building the short stretch of road in this county.

Approval was given to the united requests for this highway from Madison and Jackson counties at a meeting of the State Highway Commission at Frankfort Monday. The state and federal governments will pay their half of the cost; Jackson county will put up her $125,000 bond issue, and Madison will have to pay something like $30,000 to $50,000 at a very rough estimate.

Surveys will be made of the two proposed routes this fall by the state highway engineers. One route is over the historic and scenic Big Hill; the other the Scaffold Cane road. Which ever route is found the most feasible will be selected. Plans and specifications and expense estimates will be made after complete surveys have been made.

Richmond's delegation to the conference at Frankfort was composed of R. E. Turley, M. C. Kellogg, Judge John D. Goodloe, Allen H. Zaring, County Road Engineer J. G. Baxter; from Berea went John Dean, John Gay, John W. Stephens, and F. O. Clark. Jackson county was represented solely by County Agent W. R. Reynolds who is one of the liveliest good roads boosters in his county and has done yeoman work in the cause.

TRY TO SATISFY FRANCE AT GENOA

(By Associated Press)

Washington, May 9—Discussion of Russia's problem as affected by the negotiations at Genoa occupied most of today's session of the Cabinet. It developed that the attitude of the allied governments toward the Soviet regime had shaped at Genoa into a virtual agreement with the policies of the United States. The same administration spokesman added that should the Genoa conference fail in a solution of its problems the United States would go ahead independently in adjusting its relations with Russia.

KILLED MAN WHO OWED HIM $5

Tie Baker In Jail Charged With Murder of M. J. Abney Near Bearwallow

M. J. Abney, well known in the Bearwallow section, was shot and almost instantly killed by Tie Baker, on the road near F. M. Jones' store, late Sunday afternoon. Baker was arrested and is in jail here. He admits the shooting but has said nothing about the cause of it except that it was over some money.

According to the dying statement of Abney, Baker had asked him for $5 he claimed Abney owed him. Abney said that he told Baker that he (Baker) owed him $13. Abney said he then turned away and Baker shot him. He said in the statement that he did not see Baker pull his pistol.

He said that after Baker shot him he came to Abney and took the $5 out of his pocket and then jumped over a fence and went off. Abney said that the men had good friends up to that time.

There was at least one eye witness, officials say, and he says that Baker shot Abney without cause. He said that after he was shot Abney went and sat down under a tree and Baker went to him and took the $5 from his pocket; that Abney remarked to him "Don't shoot me again; you have already killed me." Several other witnesses have been summoned in the case. Officials say that their information is that the $5 Baker claimed Abney owed him was for some moonshine whisky, while the $13 that Abney claimed Baker owed him was a gambling debt.

Both Baker and Abney are well known in that section.

Alleged Moonshiners Make Beer In Pike Jail

Pikeville, Ky., May 9—Even the bars of Pikeville's jail proved inadequate to keep a dozen alleged moonshiners from having their drink. When prisoners became unusually noisy, Jailer Rowe after repeated efforts to quiet them, instituted a search. In the shower bath room was found a lard can of beer. The prisoners had obtained the tin can under pretense of using it as a water cooler, but thru some trusty or otherwise, had obtained a supply of sugar and corn bread, from which they manufactured beer.

Weeks Stay

The days roll on and the nation is attracted by the peace between the Harding administration and with respect to its foreign policy. Supposedly to be against Wilson, it had been advocated by Wilson, the administration's co-operation was going to rescue the world out of existence at once.

Such words as recognition of the function of the League of Nations, a new association to receive world peace, was completed in the same way that the League's statement was to be made a congressional resolution.

Now comes the news from Germany that "complete withdrawal of American troops from Germany will be delayed." It may well be that this country's interests in Europe have not yet known what the Harding administration would have done in Europe for world

It would hardly be the days roll on the country's attention is attracted to the difference between the words and actions of the Harding administration with respect to what it calls a peace policy. Supposedly at its outset to be against everything that had been advocated by Woodrow Wilson, the administration, with the co-operation of Congress, was going to resolve we were clear out of existence. After a few magic words and a hand shake the new administration was going to produce a general world. Louisville, Ky., May 9—For more than a year Sam Yusman was an ardent suitor and showed no signs of nervousness, Mrs. Fannie Yusman, his bride of two weeks, said in a maintenance petition.

Mrs. Yusman, who is 51 years old, said Yusman called her over the telephone and said his nervous condition would not permit him to continue marital relations. After being served with notice of the action, Yusman filed suit in which he asked for an absolute divorce, alleging that his wife concealed from him her true physical condition.

FIND MOONSHINE IN DRINKERS' SPINES

Covington, Ky., May 9—"Raisin jack, moonshine and other distilled liquors now being made and sold by bootleggers are such rank poison to the human system that, when we puncture the spine of a man who has soaked himself with the stuff, the poison is found in the spinal fluid."

Dr. A. D. Finlayson, of the Lakeside Hospital, Cleveland, who spoke before the State Medical Association on "A Study of the Spinal Fluid of Alcoholics," made that statement. "The contraband distilled liquors now being consumed are more poisonous than the properly made and aged whisky of former days," said Dr. Finlayson. "The fusel oil in moonshine, together with other poisonous chemicals makes this liquor especially harmful to the system."

"If any young man came into our hospital and saw another man in the righful throes of delirium tremens he would never touch a drop of moonshine. Prohibition has decreased the number of delirium tremens cases in the Cleveland hospital and state hospitals, but I think the poisoning is more severe."

He said that delirium tremens are now being relieved by removing some of the poisoned spinal fluid and replacing it with salt water solution.

Phone Operator Gets Citation and Medal

Junction City, Ky., May 9—Mrs. Mary Ellen Carter, of Junction City, is one of the fourteen telephone employees in the south who have received citations and the Theodore N. Vail medal for unselfish deeds, courage and resourcefulness. Mrs. Carter, an operator, remained at her post during a fire until necessary to escape from the burning building thru a second-story window.

Realizing danger to property in absence of an organized fire department, she gave the alarm to residents of the town and country, notified the manager in a nearby town, moved to a place of safety as much as possible; then remained at the switchboard until intense heat completely cut off the only available stairway, making it necessary for her to escape from the second floor, thru a window.

MUSIC SCHOLARSHIPS FOR KENTUCKIANS

(By Associated Press)

Frankfort, Ky., May 9—Cementing of the friendly relations between the American people and the French together with a desire to do something for the country that helped France during the recent world war, are the expressed aims of the Fontainebleau School of Music, to which five Kentucky musicians are being offered scholarships. Five young women attended the school from this state last year on recommendation of Governor Morrow.

The governor recently received notice from the American Committee in charge of selection of the persons to attend the school telling of this year's plan. Last year a total of 85 students, representing 33 states, attended the school. This year the plan is to care for 100.

The school is supported by the French government. It was founded by Maurice Fragnaud and Francis Casadesus and is under the auspices of the French Ministry Des Beaux Arts and the Municipality of Fontainebleau and the American Friends of Musicians in France. The students from America are housed in the Palace of Fontainebleau.

The musical advisory committee in America is composed of thirty-three musicians, including Eugene Ysaye of Cincinnati and Rudolph Ganz, of St. Louis. Applicants for scholarships must secure letters of endorsement from a reputable music teacher, stating experience, training and the degree of proficiency in his or her special branch of study. They must have letters of endorsement from the governor, a representative in congress or a senator or other persons of "known authority." All will be examined by members of the musical advisory board if there is time.

SOIL IMPROVEMENT NEEDED IN KENTUCKY

(By Associated Press)

Lexington, Ky., May 9—Soil improvement is essential in increasing the agricultural wealth of Kentucky, according to R. A. Stephenson, soils extension specialist of the College of Agriculture. Land represents about one third of the money invested in farm property in the state, he says.

Of the remaining amount farm buildings claim one sixth, implements and machinery one thirty-first and livestock one tenth, it was pointed out.

"Although the total valuation of farm property has about doubled since the 1910 census, the distribution of wealth has changed little," Mr. Stephenson continued. "Ten years ago the land represented five eighths, buildings one fifth, implements and machinery one thirty-seventh and livestock one seventh of the total agricultural wealth.

"The year ago the value of the crops represented nearly three per cent of the land valuation while the last census shows that crops represent three and one third per cent of the land valuation. This is a low crop production and is due primarily to low yields although prices have been an important factor."

Greater production and acreage will leave more profits and funds for equipment improvement and social cultural advantages, Mr. Stephenson pointed out.

"Soil building necessitates not only the addition of fertility but also prevention of fertility losses," Mr. Stephenson continued. "Almost $20,000,000 worth of plant food is wasted each year by erosion and leaching while careless handling of farm manure causes an additional $20,000,000 in fertility. In addition from three to six million dollars worth of plant food is sold off the farm each year in the tobacco crop, while only about one half of this fertility is returned as commercial fertilizers used for all crops."

"Erosion and leaching losses largely can be prevented by keeping fields seeded to grass or winter annuals so that there will be no bare land. The losses in farm manure can be reduced by feeding stock in sheds, using plenty of bedding and keeping all manure under cover until it is spread on the fields."

"The state should grow nearly six times its present acreage of clovers, soybeans, cowpeas and other legumes to supply the nitrogen in the soil building plan. Clovers require limestone, but annual legumes may be grown without the use of this material. The state also should use five times as much phosphate as is used at the present time."

BIG DOGS ADOPT DESERTED LAMB

By Associated Press

Toledo, O., May 9.—A tiny, wobbly-legged lamb which struggled down between two great dogs in the animal house in the zoo at Wobridge park here gives visitors another side of the strange life there.

The recent experience at the zoo, in which keeper Lou Scherer was severely injured in a hand-to-hand struggle with a giant ape, furnished a picture of myfieled hatred, but that of the lamb and the dogs shows a striking contrast.

Half-starved, temporarily blind and suffering from the cold—the new-born lamb was found in one corner of the animal yard. It was such a dilapidated little unit that even the mother had deserted it.

Keepers carried it into the animal house, fed it warm milk out of a bottle, and greased its eyes and furnished it a cosy bed near the stove.

The two Great Dane dogs, almost as big as Shetland ponies, immediately adopted the lamb. The lamb is now several weeks old. It prefers, instead of the mru made bed provided for it, a place between the two big dogs as they sleep by the fire. And so warm is the affection between this strange trio that it even the keepers dare approach the lamb without preliminary warning words to the big Danes.

The tender care of the keepers and the two dogs has restored the lamb's sight and health.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT IS ON AT EASTERN

The first day of the tennis tournament on the Eastern Normal courts saw several aspirants for titles eliminated. In the student male singles two have been left in the race. They are Robert Harrod and Russell Little. The final will take place Tuesday afternoon between these two lads. To get in the finals Harrod had to win over three players while Little had only to down two men.

In the first round Little defeated Edgar Higgins 9-11; 6-1 and 7-5. Coates defeated Dalton 6-0 and 6-1. Harrod defeated Sparks 6-0 and 6-4. Arnold defeated Charles Lewis 6-4 and 6-3 and Leroy Lewis defeated L. B. Shearer 2-6, 7-5 and 6-4. The Little and Higgins match proved to be the hardest fought in the first round, Little being forced to play 42 games before winning. Leroy Lewis was the "dark horse" of the day, winning over Shearer. This was the first time that he had been able to accomplish this feat in many engagements between the two.

Lewis drew a bye in the second round. Little won over Coates 6-3 and 6-3, while Harrod defeated Arnold by winning two love sets. Little drew a bye in the semi-final, but Harrod beat Lewis in straight sets, 6-3 and 6-3. The finals will be played Tuesday afternoon between Harrod and Little.

Miss Lewis won the faculty feminine singles by defeating Miss Hammond 6-4, 4-6 and 6-3 after the latter had defeated Miss Lenmon. Both Miss Lewis and Miss Hammond displayed some fine form on the courts. The faculty men singles did not make much progress. Mr. McClain defeated Mr. Carter Monday afternoon in straight sets. The score was 6-1 and 8-6. McClain meets Demiston in the finals Tuesday.

Several tennis fans were disappointed that Professor Keith did not take part in the tournament. He was called away and will be gone the rest of the week.

The singles for student women were discontinued until Tuesday with Misses Whaley and Lutes still in the running. Both came thru in good form. This tourney will decide who is to be Eastern's representatives in the E. A. A. tennis contests in London May 15th.

WANTS EXSERVICE MEN IN HIS SQUADRON

Major W. P. Hyden, infantry O. R. C., is seeking enlistment of ex-service men in Detachment 2nd Squadron headquarters of the 31st Cavalry Regiment, a part of the 6th Cavalry Division Organized Reserves of Kentucky. The enlistments for the detachment have been restricted to four counties, Madison, Garrard, Mercer and Estill. The period of enlistment is one and three years and any ex-service man may be enlisted in the highest grade honorably held by him during his former service.

Colonel Palmer points out that at the conclusion of previous wars, the United States scrapped all it had learned in battle and demobilized without any attempt to carry those costly lessons on to younger generations for their protection and aid in time of war. Veterans of the Civil war schooled in soldier craft, skilled in field work and the handling of mighty forces with minimum confusion in movement and minimum losses in battle, went back to civil life, he says, and lost all touch with military matters. When the war with Spain came, their knowledge was lost to the men of 1898. It was necessary to build again from the ground up, and 1917 saw this waste repeated, the bulletin users.

The purpose of the new scheme of welding the regulars, the National Guard and the organized reserves into the army of the United States in peace times is defined by Colonel Palmer as follows:

"It is primarily the object of our new law to perpetuate the framework of the organization developed in the World war, so that its tremendous cost can be funded as a permanent investment for all time."

Had such a system as is now well advanced toward establishment been erected after the Civil war, the officer adds, "In 1898 more divisions than were needed for the war with Spain could have begun their expansion within 24 hours after the declaration of hostilities."

Centralized Process Demoralizing.

"Mobilization in 1917," Colonel Palmer continues, "would have proceeded as a decentralized process and not as a great centralized process, upsetting the economic life of the nation. It would not have been necessary to spend millions for great concentrated training camps or to overburden the railroads with unclassified personnel and material in order to organize and train and equip and provide officers all at the same time. Such a national organization must have saved months in time and millions in money."

Colonel Palmer points out that Stonewall Jackson alone of leaders on either side of the Civil war entered the contest with knowledge of what staff work meant. He had studied Napoleon's troop orders, and in the first battle of the war, Colonel Palmer says, "showed that even raw troops can stand like a stone wall if the prevalent rawness does not extend to the craftsmanship of the commander."

LESSONS OF WAR IN NEW DEFENSE

Plan Provides for an Efficient Staff Trained in Peace Time.

BARS CENTRALIZED CAMPS

Foundation Work on Great National Scheme of Mobilization Already Done—Regular Army to Train Men for War.

Washington.—Two lessons of the World war, learned at heavy cost, are sharply emphasized in a War department bulletin, giving the first official picture of the new national defense structure projected in the reorganized army of the United States. One lesson comes direct from the battlefields of France. It is that efficient staff work is vital to modern military operations, and with it goes the corollary that staff functions cannot be learned over night.

The other comes from the wartime din and confusion of the centralized training camps at home. It is that efficient mobilization of the nation's fighting strength can be carried out only as a decentralized process through agencies set up in times of peace.

Realization that these lessons must be worked into the new military policy if perils, delay and costly confusion which preceded past mobilizations were to be avoided has marked the effort of the War department. The bulletin shows that it has attempted to write regulations under the revised national defense act that would furnish a clean-cut scheme for war mobilization without violating national traditions against militarism or creating machinery that would impose heavy burdens in peace times upon the taxpayers.

To Profit by Experience.

The project undertaken probably is the most far-reaching military effort the nation has ever attempted in peace times.

The foundation work has been done. All over the country decentralized machinery is being set up capable, its designers believe, of getting the nation on a war footing with little delay and confusion. Yet it is felt that the nation at large and even the most important links in the new defense chain, the regular army, the National Guard and the Officers' Reserve corps do not appreciate fully what is being done.

Col. John McA. Palmer, the officer assigned to aid congress in framing the legislation making it all possible, and who has devoted himself to a study of the subject, was called upon to furnish the document, and his work is to go to all parts of the new army as a means of preventing misunderstanding.

Colonel Palmer points out that at the conclusion of previous wars, the United States scrapped all it had learned in battle and demobilized without any attempt to carry those costly lessons on to younger generations for their protection and aid in time of war. VAST DIRIGIBLE LINE IS PLANNED

Corporation Is Formed for the Promotion of Commercial Flying in United States.

BIG MEN BEHIND PROJECT

First Line to Be Operated Will Be From New York to Chicago—Airships to Be of Modified Zeppelin Type—Use Helium Gas.

Washington.—The formation of a gigantic corporation for commercial navigation of the air in this country, through the establishment of regular lines over which will be operated huge dirigible airships of the modified Zeppelin type, was announced by the United States chamber of commerce.

The corporation will be known as General Air Service, its incorporators and founders include some of the best-known men of the country. Definite plans for the construction of huge dirigibles in Germany have been formed, the whole dirigible situation has been studied from an advanced scientific point of view and, it is announced, the corporation expects to be able to place two large ships in operation in this country in the summer of 1923.

Benedict Crowell is one of the group of financial men and engineers behind the project, and he will be president of the new corporation, which was incorporated under the laws of Maryland on Feb. 21, 1922. Mr. Crowell was formerly assistant secretary of war, was head of the American aviation mission to Europe, and is president of the Aero Club of America.

Field Thoroughly Investigated.

Before going ahead with the incorporation of the General Air Service, which will be the manufacturing and operating company, the men interested in the project formed what was known as the American Investigation corporation, for the purpose of investigating the practicability of the establishment of commercial air services with large rigid airships in this and neighboring countries. In their investigations the representatives of the corporation had the co-operation and assistance of Dr. Johann Schneute of the Schneute-Lanz Airship company of Germany, and his corps of engineers, also various engineers and associates of other airship authorities of Europe. Dr. Schneute had been in America in the spring of 1920, as head officials of the Zeppelin company, and the information gained from them was of material service in the first formal step—the organization of the American Investigation corporation.

The first line the company hopes to put into operation will be from New York to Chicago, to be extended to Pacific coast cities as soon as additional ships can be built. The New York-Chicago line will be opened, it is announced, by two ships, each of approximately 4,000,000 cubic feet capacity, these ships to be fabricated in Germany and erected in the United States. They are designed to provide accommodations for 100 passengers and 30 tons of mail and express matter. It is announced to be the plan to build larger ships for lines to South America and Europe when the facilities for complete construction have been gathered.

Dr. Schneute is identified with the new company. It is declared to be the plan to build the later ships in this country, and virtually to transfer a large part of the Zeppelin-making business to the United States.

Plan to Use Helium.

It is not planned to use hydrogen gas, but helium, in these gigantic new dirigibles which, it is asserted, will embrace the latest modifications of both the Zeppelin and Schneute patents, both of which were combined in the last of the German dirigibles built during the war. It is also asserted that gasoline, another source of fire and explosion, will not be used, and that that motive power will be furnished by oil fuel.

"Commercial air transport in the United States," says the announcement, "is in the doldrums, and apparently will remain so until it is given legal and economic status by federal or at least by state action. Properly developed, with present transportation systems, this new agency can become a most valuable addition to the nation's specialized carrier capacity in peace as well as in war."

"At present nation-wide regulative legislation is greatly needed, not only for the ordinary needs of public safety, but also to establish the legal status and responsibilities of air transport in national and international business. Canada, Australia and European nations already have provided such legislation. Without practical encouragement commercial aerodynamics in America will continue to lag behind foreign development to such an extent as to constitute a menace to future security and to delay fatally the essential commercial development in which America should rightly stand first."

meeting in Pineville was sent to J. C. Alcock, of Danville, secretary, and L. S. Fitzhugh, Williamsburg, chairman of the executive board, to whom have been designated authority for choosing the 1922 summer meeting place. The invitation was extended by Mayor McDonald and the city council, the Kiwanis Club and the Pineville Sun.

LIGHTS IN HEN HOUSE
DON'T PAY IN STATE

(By Associated Press)

Lexington, Ky., May 9—No longer will the bugle blow for Kentucky's chickens at 4 a.m., on winter mornings.

This is the verdict of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station after year of waking "biddy" early when the sun rises after 4 a.m.

The experiment of using electric lights to get laying hens off the roost and start them working an hour or two before daybreak, according to J. Holmes Martin, in charge of the station's poultry work, which has been under way for three years, shows that the plan is unprofitable in Kentucky. The increase in egg production is not enough to make it worthwhile.

The experiment has proved profitable in the matter of egg production in Northern States where the nights are long in the winter. The Kentucky nights, according to station officials, are not long enough, however, to make it profitable.

Results obtained up to the present time in the third year of the experiment are in line with those obtained in the first two years and show a slight increase in the winter egg production of pullets but a considerably greater increase in the egg production of hens. However, in the course of a year, pullets that did not have the lights in the morning produced a few more eggs than those that did, Mr. Martin said. The slight increase in the winter egg production of pullets by use of the lights was attributed to the fact that the winter months are those in which pullets normally lay well.

The fact that hens on the farm should not be pushed for egg production since they furnish the breeding stock for the farm flock together with the fact that hens and pullets usually run together on the average farm were pointed out as additional reasons why farmers should not use lights.

During the four winter months from November until March in the second year of the experiment 70 pullets that had their day lengthened by use of the lights averaged 10 more eggs each than did those that had no lights while 30 one-year-old hens that had the lights averaged 15 more eggs a piece during the four winter months than those that had no lights.

During the entire year, however, the hens that had no lights to get them up in the winter mornings produced an average of nine more eggs a hen than the hens under the lights did, according to the results of the experiment. During the past winter, 70 pullets in the lighted pens averaged three more eggs during the four months than the hens in the unlighted pens did. Thirty yearling hens in a lighted pen averaged 24 more eggs a hen than the same number in an unlighted pen, the experimental results showed.

In all the experiments, the birds were fed the recommended Kentucky ration consisting of a scratch mixture and dry mash. The scratch feed was made up of 70 pounds of corn and 30 pounds of oats, while the mash was made up of equal parts by weight of bran, shorts, ground oats, corn and meat chop. Ground limestone grit and fresh water were kept before the birds at all times.

Louisville, Ky., May 9—"There is nothing to worry about; the best horse in the world will win," Benjamin Block, owner of Morvich, declared in summing up his chances to win next Saturday's classic, five minutes after his arrival Monday afternoon. He and Mrs. Block, with Fred Burlew, Morvich's trainer, arrived on the 2:30 o'clock train from the East and are registered at the Seelbach. The other members of the party are Mr. and Mrs. Hart Denham and Mrs. Lorenz Scherrin. Mrs. Block agreed with her husband that there is absolutely nothing to worry about.

She denied even being the least bit excited, giving this as a reason and adding that she had seen orange and jade, Mr. Block's colors, go to the post too often to become excited.
